VINS Annual Report

April 1, 2011 ~ March 31, 2012

Over the past year, the Vermont Institute of Natural Science has had a profound influence within our local community and beyond. VINS continues to motivate individuals and communities to care for the environment through education, research, and avian wildlife rehabilitation programs.

When VINS Co-Founder David Laughlin embarked upon a study of water quality in the Ottauquechee River in 1970, and the subsequent fight to clean up the river, nobody expected that one action to grow into what VINS is today—Vermont's premier environmental education facility and destination Nature Center. On October 21, 2012, The Vermont Institute of Natural Science proudly celebrates its 40th anniversary as a member of the Upper Valley community.

Since the very first Environmental Learning for the Future (ELF) program was begun in 1973, a year after VINS was founded, VINS programs have become an integral part of environmental learning in the Upper Valley and beyond. Thousands of children in New England have grown up with VINS and taken the lessons they've learned about environmental responsibility and sustainability with them into their adult lives.

Relocating from Woodstock to Quechee in 2004, on the banks of the river that gave the organization its inspiration and inception, has allowed VINS' educators and rehabilitators to become a more visible and valuable presence in the community and also enabled the organization to pursue our mission—to motivate individuals and communities to care for the environment through education, research, and avian wildlife rehabilitation—farther and wider. Visitors from all over New England and beyond come to visit their favorite raptors, learn about the natural world, and gain a respite from their day-to-day lives.

VINS continues to explore new initiatives and challenges that tackle timely environmental issues, present up-to-date programs to help educate the community, and care for the wilder, avian members of the region. Looking ahead at projects to start off the next 40 years, VINS will be working on a number of exciting ventures. We've initiated the Naturalist-in-Residence Program, a new outreach venture to local schools that teams up VINS educators with science teachers to develop curricula that meet Core standards and assist the teacher in the classroom. On the Nature Center grounds, we'll be upgrading our nature trails. VINS also continues to update and add to our popular camp offerings and onsite educational programs. Our dedication to research also continues unabated. Every year, we sponsor and host student researchers from Vermont and New Hampshire universities and colleges.

From our education programs to our role as Vermont's avian rehabilitation center, we at VINS can certainly be proud of these achievements. But none of this success would have been possible without the curiosity, passion, vision, and generosity of the community that supports us. This 40th birthday is not just a celebration of VINS, it's a celebration of the people of our home base—the Upper Valley, Vermont, New Hampshire, and New England. All of us can be proud of what VINS has become. VINS thanks you for supporting us these past 40 years, and we look forward to working with you for the next 40. Sincerely,

John V. Dolan

Expanding the Reach of VINS' Education and Conservation Programs

OUR MISSION

VINS is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization whose mission is to motivate individuals and communities to care for the environment through education, research and avian wildlife rehabilitation.

OUR PRIORITY

Making high-quality, compelling and fun environmental education programs and learning opportunities accessible to more people and communities.

OUR VISION

To promote and deliver integrated programs and services that are designed for a broad audience and address current ecological challenges. Specifically, VINS offers:

- An exceptional environmental education resource at the VINS Nature Center,
- Creative collaboration with other organizations,
- Support for focused environmental research.

- VINS ELF, School and Community Education Programs – VINS reached 16,000 children and adults in 2011-2012 through year-round environmental and outreach programs to regional schools, community centers, libraries, and special community events. Several foundation grants along with generous donor support subsidized VINS programs in under-resourced schools and communities, allowing us to reach 4,500 students and 1,800 adults. While Tropical Storm Irene pushed back the school year in affected areas of the Upper Valley Region, we were able to reach these schools later in the year.
- VINS Naturalist-in-Residence Program – VINS launched a new school program initiative that brings teachers and students high-quality science education with a focus on hands-on, inquiry-based learning. Outdoor exploration is central to the program and allows students to fully engage in the learning process while enhancing the discovery that takes place in the classroom. Through engaging and inter-disciplinary activities that take place beyond the four walls of the classroom, students develop strong skills in the natural sciences and are challenged to think critically. Students and teachers at the Ottauquechee School and the Lyme Nursery School participated in the pilot year of this program.
- VINS Education Partnership with the US Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) – VINS continues its cooperative agreement with the USFWS's Silvio O. Conte National Fish & Wildlife Refuge to develop and deliver environmental education programs throughout the Connecticut River Watershed. VINS' programs accompany and complement the Refuge's Watershed on Wheels (WOW) Express, a traveling exhibit with interactive, hands-on displays that teach audiences of all ages about the importance of healthy watersheds. The exhibit provided direct environmental education programs to more than 2,500 public school students as part of this very successful partnership.
- VINS Nature Camps – The VINS Nature Camp program had another successful summer season in 2011, providing nature-themed adventures and education to 300 campers in seven communities throughout Vermont and western New Hampshire. VINS engaged several new partners and offered, for the first time in their communities, a summer filled with hands-on environmental exploration for children. VINS' camp program partners included: Purple Crayon Productions in Woodstock, VT; Storr's Pond Recreation Area in Hanover, NH; Upper Valley Aquatic Center, White River Junction, VT; Saint-Gaudens National Historic Site, Cornish, NH; AVA Gallery, Lebanon, NH; New England Tropical Conservancy, Bennington, VT; Cob Hill Farm and Cedar Mountain Farm, Hartland, VT; and King Arthur Flour, Norwich, VT. Thanks to the generosity of donors, sponsors and foundations to VINS Nature Camps, VINS was able to provide 40% of its campers with partial or full scholarships totaling more than $11,000.

- Local Invasive Species Management – VINS joined forces with several local and statewide conservation organizations to form the Ottauquechee Cooperative Invasive Species Management Area (OCISMA), a watershed-wide volunteer organization committed to managing invasive species in the 223-square mile Ottauquechee River Watershed. The OCISMA comprises a group of concerned citizens, municipalities, and businesses led by a steering committee that includes representatives from the Silvio O. Conte National Fish and Wildlife Refuge, the Marsh-Billings-Rockefeller National Historic Park, the US Army Corps of Engineers, the Vermont Agency of Natural Resources, the Vermont Chapter of The Nature Conservancy, the Ottauquechee Natural Resources Conservation District, and Vermont invasive species pioneer Mike Bald. During the summer of 2011, volunteers and interns from partnering organizations helped remove almost two tons of Eurasian water milfoil, dame's rocket, and garlic mustard from the Ottauquechee River and its tributaries.

Providing Exceptional Wildlife Care and Rehabilitation Training

- New England's Premier Avian Rehabilitation Center – The VINS Wildlife Services (WLS) team provided care for 380 birds in calendar year 2011, a decrease of 120 birds from 2010. This decrease was most probably due to both the mild winter and Tropical Storm Irene, which likely caused the birds to move deeper into the woods for protection and food. Human-related causes topped the list of injuries, at 55% of all intake birds. These 380 birds represented 72 different species, two of which—a northern gannett and a band-rumped storm-petrel—were rare to our area and swept here by Tropical Storm Irene. Also in 2011, VINS erected two new structures for wild bird rehabilitation: waterfowl tubs to support the increase of ducks and geese coming into our care, and a new flight test enclosure addition. The Wildlife Services staff and all the staff at VINS thank you for the support of our new rehabilitation improvements for our patients. To see the continuous happenings in WLS, check in regularly with our webcam at www.vinsweb.org.
- Dedicated Wildlife Services Staff and Volunteers – More than 178 volunteers transported injured patients into our care at the VINS Nature Center in 2011. The dedication of the Wildlife Services staff, which includes interns, volunteers, seasonal employees and management all had a hand in making sure our patients received the best care possible. Our team educates members of the public, keeps the raptor enclosures sparkling, provides premium care for injured and ill birds, and otherwise keeps the Nature Center up and running!

Offering New and Varied Adult Education and Research Programs

- VINS' Nature Lecture Series – VINS' 2011-2012 lecture series included presentations by Native American Dana Benner, climate change researcher Peter Malsin, and summer research interns Ben Sweet and John Loffredo. VINS also partnered with Local First Alliance to host a lecture by author Joe Sherman, and worked with Linking Lands Alliance to host lectures by Len Reitsma and George Leoniak as part of their series Where Wildlife Roam. In addition, VINS partnered with the Upper Valley Land Trust to host a screening of Green Fire, a movie chronicling the life Aldo Leopold.
- VINS' Field Science Research Program – During the summer of 2011, VINS welcomed two research interns, Ben Sweet and John Loffredo, both students in Natural Resources Management at Green Mountain College, to participate in ongoing exploration and research. Ben looked at the relationship between the beautiful array of blooming plant species in the VINS meadow and the many different pollinators that visited these flowers. John looked at how invasive species interact with the native ecosystem and examined management strategies to minimize their impacts. Ben and John presented their findings in late fall with a full audience in our classroom at the Nature Center.
- VINS' Support for the Arts – Several local New England artists exhibited their work at the VINS Nature Center, including Carrie Hayes, Doug Aja, and Mary Louise Pierson from Vermont, and Barry Van Dusen from Massachusetts.

Turning 40

- 40th Anniversary Kick-Off – As one of the Co-Founders of VINS, Dr. David Laughlin hosted a dinner on August 28th, thanking our long-time supporters for the last 40 years. It was an honor to have those who made that possible join us for a beautiful evening.
- 40th Anniversary Receptions – To mark VINS' 40th anniversary, celebratory receptions were hosted in October 2011 and February 2012 by members of the Board of Trustees and the Board of Advisors.

Helping Our Community

- Support for Displaced Neighbors – IBEX Outdoor Clothing located their annual tent sale at the VINS Nature Center in October. We were thrilled to have the IBEX team and followers join us for a very exciting weekend.
- Environmental Clean-up Leadership – Going back to its roots, VINS contributed many hours of volunteer clean-up work on the Ottauquechee River, helping the community get back on its feet in the aftermath of Tropical Storm Irene.
